Safe Medication Disposal Information

Your medication is for you

Medications that are safe for you can harm someone else. Unneeded medications should be disposed of as soon as possible. You can discard unneeded medications through a local safe disposal program or at home for some medications.

Finding a drug disposal site near you

A drug take back site is the best way to safely dispose of medications. Two take back sites near you are:

To find other drug take back sites, visit the website below and enter your location:

Some pharmacies and police stations offer on-site drop-off boxes, mail-back programs, and other ways for safe disposal. Call your pharmacy or local police department (non-emergency number) for disposal options near you.

Mailing medications to drug disposal sites

Medications may be mailed to authorized sites using approved packages. Information on mail back sites can be found at <www.deatakeback.com>

Safe at-home medication disposal

You can safely dispose of many medications through the trash or by flushing them down the toilet. Visit the following website to learn more about safe at-home disposal:

Follow these steps for medication disposal in the trash:
